

Summer Camps 2006
for Children with Disabilities

This is a guide to some directories and listings of summer camps. Some resources identify camps available to all children, and some are especially for children who have disabilities. It is also likely that your community has summer camps or recreational opportunities available, that you probably won't find listed in these directories! To find out what's available in your community, consult these local sources of information—your child's teachers, local parks or recreation departments, religious organizations, fellow parents, and community groups.
